AGUA DE MAGNOLIA.

A toilet delight. Superior to any cologne, used to bathe the face and person, to render the skin soft and fresh, to allay inflammation, to perfume clothing, for headache, &c. It is manufactured from the rich southern Magnolia, and is obtaining a patronage quite unprecedented. It is a favorite with actresses and opera singers. It is sold by all dealers, at $1,00 in large bottles, and by Demas Barnes & Co., New York, Wholesale Agents.

Saratoga Spring Water, sold by all Druggists.

Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid fever, constipation, &c., deserve to suffer if they will not try the celebrated PLANTATION BITTERS, which are now recommended by the highest medical authorities and are warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure, and must supersede all other tonics where a healthy, gentle stimulant is required.

They purify, strengthen and invigorate.
They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.
They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya Bark, wintergreen, sassafras, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix rum. For particulars, see circulars and testimonials around each bottle.

Beware of imposters. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. stamp unmutilated over the cork with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. ☞See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. ☞Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in bulk, is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters, from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

Have you a hurt child or a lame horse? Use the Mexican Mustang Liniment.

For rheumatism, neuralgia, stiff joints, stings and bites, there is nothing like the Mexican Mustang Liniment.

For spavined horses, the poll evil, ringbone and sweeny, the Mexican Mustang Liniment never fails.

For wind-galls, scratches, big-head, and splint, the Mexican Mustang Liniment is worth its weight in gold.

Cuts, bruises, sprains and swellings, are so common and certain to occur in every family, that a bottle of this Liniment is the best investment that can be made.

It is more certain than the doctor—it saves time in sending for the doctor—it is cheaper than the doctor, and should never be dispensed with.

"In lifting the kettle from the fire, it tipped over and scalded my hands terribly. * * * The Mustang Liniment extracted the pain, caused the sore to heal rapidly, and left very little scar.

CHAS. FOSTER, 420 Broad street, Philada.

Mr. S. Litch, of Hyde Park, Vt., writes: "My horse was considered worthless, (spavin,) but since the use of the Mustang Liniment, I have sold him for $150. Your Liniment is doing wonders up here."

All genuine is wrapped in steel plate engravings, signed, G. W. Westbrook, Chemist, and also has the private U. S. stamp of Demas Barnes & Co., over the top.

Look closely, and be not deceived by counterfeits.

Sold by all Druggists at 25, 50 cts, and $1,00.

It is a most delightful Hair Dressing.
It eradicates scurf and dandruff.
It keeps the head cool and clean.
It makes the hair rich, soft and glossy.
It prevents the hair turning gray and falling off.
It restores hair upon prematurely bald heads.

This is just what Lyon's Kathairon will do. It is pretty—it is cheap—durable. It is literally sold by the carload, and yet its almost incredible demand is daily increasing, until there is hardly a country store that does not keep it, or a family that does not use it.

Who would not be beautiful? Who would not add to their beauty? What gives that marble purity and distingue appearance we observe upon the stage and in the city belle? It is no longer a secret. They use Hagan's Magnolia Balm. Its continued use removes tan, freckles, pimples, and roughness, from the face and hands, and leaves the complexion smooth, transparent, blooming and ravishing. Unlike many cosmetics, it contains no material injurious to the skin. Any Druggist will order it for you, if not on hand, at 50 cents per bottle.

Helmstreet's Inimitable Hair Coloring is not a dye. All Instantaneous dyes are composed of lunar caustic, and more or less destroy the vitality and beauty of the hair. This is the original Hair Coloring, and has been growing in favor over twenty years. It restores gray hair to its original color by gradual absorption, in a most remarkable manner. It is also a beautiful hair dressing. Sold in two sizes—50 cents and $1—by all dealers.

THE GIPSY'S WARNING.

Do not trust him, gentle lady,
Though his voice be low and sweet;
Heed not him who kneels before you,
Gently pleading at your feet;
Now thy life is in its morning,
Cloud not this, thy happy lot,
Listen to the Gipsy's warning,
Gentle lady, trust him not.

Do not turn so coldly from me,
I would only shield thy youth
From his stern and withering power—
I would only tell the truth;
I would shield thee from all danger,
Save thee from the tempter's snare;
Lady, shun the dark eyed stranger,
I have warned you, now beware.

Lady, once there lived a maiden,
Pure and bright, and like thee fair,
But he wooed, he wooed and won her,
Filled her gentle heart with care;
Then he heeded not her pleading,
Nor cared he her life to save;
Soon she perished—now she's sleeping
In the cold and silent grave.

Keep thy gold, I do not wish it,
Lady, I have prayed for this,
For the hour when I might foil him—
Rob him of expected bliss.
Gentle lady, do not wonder
At my words, so cold and wild;
Lady, in the green grave yonder
Lies the Gipsy's only child.

ALL FOR A WILL.

A LAWYER'S STORY.

It was towards the close of a March day, a few years ago, as I sat in my office musing over the different cases spread out before me, when I was suddenly startled to my feet by the entrance of a man.

Not because a man is an uncommon sight; but the appearance of this one made me draw back with fear.

He was about three and thirty years of age, with a long, narrow face, small projecting eyes, large mouth, and nose rather long and inclined to droop at the end. His face was as smooth as an infant's, and the few mixed locks were brushed behind his ears, giving him a look of the mildest character.

In size he was of the medium height, legs not the straightest to be sure, yet they matched well with the lean, bowed arms, which hung awkwardly by his side.

After this personage had entered he closed the door noiselessly behind him, took off his hat and placed it carefully on the table. Then, turning and scanning the room for a moment, he advanced toward me.

"Your name is ——, is it not, sir?" said the stranger; and without waiting a reply extended his hand.

"The same, sir," I replied, and unceremoniously put forward my hand, which was seized with a tight grip, then loosened, and the stranger sat himself down in front of me.

"Well, as you are the gentleman I desire to see, I trust that you are at leisure to hear my errand to you?"

I nodded my head for him to proceed, for I could not speak. My tongue seemed lifeless within my mouth, and every moment the cold sweat oozed out of every pore till I feared I would fall out of the chair I sat upon. Understanding my sign, he proceeded as follows:

"My name is Walker—Albert, if you please to have it—and for some years I lived out West. But things of late not going on the smoothest in that direction, I went down to mother's. I found the old lady very sick, and as there is no chance of her getting better, she wished me to call (having been recommended) and ask you to come up and see how she wished to dispose of her estate."

"She wishes a will," I managed to say.

"Yes—exactly. Come at once; a carriage is waiting at the door which will soon take us to our destination."

I had some misgivings at first about trusting myself with a stranger in such a manner; but considering that I had nothing to detain me at my office, I yielded and soon seated myself in the carriage with the stranger beside me.

I had omitted to ask where his mother resided, and this accompanied with the thought "I may be with a madman," who are so insidious in their doings, awoke the most revolting imaginations within me. My companion was leaning back against the seat, and from his outward appearance I concluded he was courting sleep. I didn't then feel at liberty to press my omitted question. Silently we rode on, my companion in his old position, while I leaned forward and endeavored to overcast my fancies by admiring the picturesque scenery without.

It was just as the sun had sunk behind the Western horizon when we stopped in front of an old fashioned cottage, partly hid by clustering vines and standing back a little way from the river bank. My companion was aroused from his seeming stupor by the halting of the carriage, and when the door was swung open by the coachman he leaped lightly out, followed by myself. Up the stoop into the hall I followed him, and here I discovered I had forgot my papers. Without expressing to those present my oversight, I descended the steps and leaned forward into the vehicle and recovered my documents. In my endeavors to be speedy I dropped part of them on the ground. I had just gathered them and was about to rise, when a shadow was thrown across my path. I turned slightly, and in a sort of cage with thick iron bars in front, I beheld the form of a woman. Catching my eye she thrust her arm through the bars and pressed into my hand a piece of paper. I was about to give vent to my surprise, when seeing her fingers pressed to her lips, I checked myself, arose, and strode into the house. It was one of those comfortable, old fashioned houses where ranges, grates and dumb waiters are held at a discount. A bright fire burned briskly upon the hearth. As I peeped through the crevice of the door I could discern the favorite black kettle swung above the lively embers and humming its accustomed tune in the kitchen.

The hall ran through the middle of the house, evidently made upon no contracted principles, for it was exceedingly long and fully proportioned in width. I was now sitting in the parlor alone, for my companion had gone above.

In about ten minutes my companion came in and invited me to partake of a cup of tea ere I commenced my duties. The offer being accepted, we adjourned to the dining room, sat down to the repast, and conversed upon various matters pleasantly. The note I had received had almost been forgotten, when I put my hand into my pocket and crushed it between my fingers. A dizziness came over me for a moment, and I conversed beneath a cloud of insensibility; for the haggard form of the woman seemed to stand before me pointing her bony finger at Walker. He perceived the change and, in an under tone, inquired if I was ill. "No, only excited and nervous; it will pass away soon," I replied.

Another cup of tea was offered and accepted, and when I had drained the contents I turned to my companion, who, with his elbow upon the table, was eyeing me sharply, and inquired if that, pointing to the servant, was the only domestic around the place. "No sir," he replied, casting his eyes from me to the floor. "I have one more; she is attending to the wants of mother."

Mother! A hollow voice seemed to echo through the silent hall, and fancy sketched grinning Death recording "She's mine."

Having finished, my companion led the way up the winding stairs, and opened a small door a few feet from the landing. I had followed on tiptoe, for he had whispered that his mother was very sensitive to the least noise, and of course I had no motive to prompt me but a desire to follow his intimation.

In a few moments we had reached a second door by means of a narrow passage. When the door was opened I found myself standing in a room, neatly but not extravagantly furnished. Near a large window stood a sideboard profusely ornamented with numerous bottles, cups, glasses, decanters, and in fact all the auxiliaries pertaining to a sick room. A little further to the left was a large double bedstead; and by the aid of the almost exhausted candle, I could discern the face of a woman.

My companion called her attention to my presence, and when I had recognized the slight nod of her head, she thanked me for my kindness in coming, as she wished my services in executing her will.

"I have a copy of the manner in which I wish to dispose of my estate, and I pray you," she added, "to follow it exactly."

She then handed me a folded sheet of paper, and I hastily glanced over the contents.

The whole estate, valued at many thousand dollars, was to be divided between her son Albert, and Alice Brower, her sister. Across the back in a large hand was the name "Mary K. Walker."

I folded it up, and as I did so I assured the woman of my willingness to follow her directions.

She turned a little in bed, and as she did so I thought I saw massive black hair beneath the white which was combed carelully back from her forehead.

I choked down the suspicions which were alive within me, and bent my ear to the woman as she spoke.

"I had a daughter, sir, three weeks ago, but she is no more—she is dead—I'll be with you, child! I'll soon come. Yes," she added, "I'll be with you soon!"

My companion beckoned me, and rising from my chair I bid her good night and left the room.

We descended the stairs without exchanging words, and walked into the parlor. Here my companion pointed to a seat, drew up another to me and said:

"You see how the case stands, Mr. ——, and it behooves you to apply your attention to this matter at once. To-morrow, I trust, you can draw up the paper, and before I bid you good bye, you will have the satisfaction of"—here he paused, as if he had unconsciously gone too far; but, quickly recovering himself, he added—"of seeing all done for the comfort of mother."

Without replying to his remarks I carelessly asked,—

"Ah, you intend for me to remain here all night, then?"

"Certainly. You could never think of getting to the city before daylight, and besides, there is no train until to-morrow."

Under the circumstances, I must submit to his proposal, and being weary I was, upon my request shown to the room I was to occupy, situated just above the apartment of the seeming invalid.

I bade my companion good night, closed the door, and then wheeled a cushioned chair near the window and sat down diffusing my thoughts throughout the many channels of the world's doings.

Thus I sat nodding at the even tick of my watch, or stretching myself to arouse me from this inviting trance.

"Ah!" I exclaimed, as the thought of the singular woman in such a singular place flashed across my mind; and I plunged my hand into my pocket and drew forth the document she had given me. Upon a coarse piece of paper, in a cramped hand, were written a few words, blotted as if the tears of the writer. They read as follows:

"I am a prisoner. For God's sake rescue me—for the sake of my dead mother."

There was no signature, and for a moment a terrible thought arose in my mind, and I was forced to rise to shake off the spell that bound me—walk, walk, until recollecting myself, I paused at the window.

It was a beautiful night. The blue canopy above was studded with twinkling stars, and the moon was just riding up the heavens in all her power and brightness. For a few moments I contemplated the scenery without, and then turned into the room.

The woman below haunted me. She seemed to have written to me to release her.

"I will! I will!" I muttered, between my clenched teeth, as I pulled off my boots, took them in my hand, and swung the door open.

I listened—not a sound. Yes, feet are on the stairs, and a light reflects the shadows of two men upon the wall beneath me. I stooped over the bannisters, and caught a fading glance of Walker, ere the door was closed behind him. I paused upon the landing, pondering whether to proceed or return to my room. A little hesitation, and then determined upon the former.

With all the care I could command, I began my descent. It was extremely dark, and great judgment was required to save me from a fall on those winding stairs. In one hand I held my boots and with the other grasped tightly the bannisters. Down, down. A loud squeaking noise met my feet upon the third step. I paused before I resumed.

"No one has heard me," thought I, as I stepped briskly down until I had reached the bottom. I heard feet upon the floor, and I slunk into a corner, covered by a column.

The door opened, and Walker, with a light held above his head, peeped out, only for a moment, in breathless anxiety, until all was again still. I reached safely the main hall, after forming no clue of the seeming invalid.

I could hear sharp talking, but I had no time to listen. My mission was below. Here I was in the dark, not knowing which way to turn with safety. I could now hear the rattling of glasses and the sound of voices above me; but I had made a discovery, and I pushed boldly forward toward a narrow stream of light straight through an opening over a door. I found it a little open, and, pushing more, I peeped with caution within.

Thick heavy curtains hung to the windows, and all was darkness; only a small hole in the outer edge of the curtain admitted the light, which shone through the opening near the door. I stepped softly across the room, pulled back the curtains, admitted a stream of light, which as I moved, oh, heavens! fell upon the upturned face of a corpse!

I uttered a suppressed cry, started backwards, and my knees shook until I was forced to lean on the window for support. Regaining more courage, I made a survey of the room and the body now lying before me. The place was neatly furnished with a plain carpet several chairs, sofas, tables, a bookcase, and several small ornaments on the mantel. These constituted all, if I add an old portrait hanging against the wall, which resembled the corpse upon which I turned my attention.

It was the lifeless form of a woman of sixty-five, very small in size, laid out to all appearances in the very habiliments she wore prior to her decease. Her hair was of a silver gray.

I now raised the window to make my exit.

I leaped upon the steps, and trod safely to the balcony. Looking carefully around I grasped the column which supported it, and slid to the ground. Once there my heart beat freer. I put on my boots, and then sought out my client.

I found the prison, and in one corner, shivering with the cold, sat the woman. I could not forbear for a moment to study the features as they were revealed by the moon. She was a woman of about twenty years, face pale, and thick curls falling promiscuously over her forehead. Yet with all the marks of privation, want and misery defined upon her, there was yet a look which denoted one who had seen better days.

Upon the door I made as much noise as was consistent, till the inmate awoke, and when she did, she flew to the place where I was standing, exclaiming:

"I knew you would come—I knew it!"

"Hush, hush!" I repeated in a whisper. "Be quick. Your safety depends upon it."

"Safety?" she replied.

"Your safety and with it freedom."

Her jet-black eyes sparkled at my remarks.

"Where is the entrance?" I asked.

"There is only one, and that is at the foot of the cellar stairs."

I saw there was no hope in that direction; so seizing a bar lying at hand I with one desperate effort, wrenched out the bolt, and the girl was free.

By chance I looked upward and saw the flash of light, in the room I had so recently occupied. There was no time to be lost. I was missed, and knowing search would follow my absence, I wrapped my coat around the woman and hurried up the road, leading her by the hand.

She told me Walker was her brother, "and yesterday, he and my aunt Alice taunted me with saying that "the old woman's dead, and you'll soon follow."

I saw it all in an instant. "The villain!" I muttered, and felt the woman's hand grasp me tightly as the word fell on her ear.

On we went till we arrived at a neighbor's house. I aroused the inmates, and then, telling our story, the gentleman called up his sons, and then I marched boldly back to the house. Gaining admittance by means of a window, we rushed up stairs as several people dashed out of the room above.

"Catch him!" I cried, as Walker fled down stairs in front of me, and with one blow from the fist of one of the sons the wretch and murderer was laid out lifeless in the hall.

Up I mounted into the room, and lo! behold the invalid—the dying woman standing in a corner, with a white wig at her feet, and her own black hanging in disorder round her shoulders. She, with Walker, and the domestics, were seized and in the morning were marched off to prison.

But now for the sad tale—now to lay bare the diabolical plot, which encompassed forgory, robbery, and swindling within its folds.

Walker made a confession to the following effect:—That his mother had died the day previous to my coming, and seeing that the will which she had made gave him but a pittance of the estate, he destroyed it, and was determined to have one of his own. So, by his advice, his aunt answered the mother's place in bed, and she was to make the will, and leave it, as I have related. Then Mrs. Walker was to be buried, and when his sister, whom it was his intention to murder, was out of the way, he could then show the will, and he and the deceiving aunt were to divide. He had shut his sister up three weeks before his mother's death, and with all the coolness imaginable, he said he presumed by his reporting her drowned, he hastened her on the road faster than anything else.

The poor girl corroborated that part relating to herself; and when I had given my evidence, a man stepped forward and produced a warrant for the arrest of Walker upon the charge of murder.

"He murdered a man," replied the officer, "some time ago, and then escaped to this place. I have been on his trail a long while, and yesterday tracked him here."

The aunt received a severe sentence—also, her domestics, accessories to the act; while Walker perished as a criminal upon the gallows. The woman, or Miss Rachel, as I should term her, regained her estate, and gained a victory over all they had done for a will.

One of the deepest and darkest plots man could conceive to defraud was brought to light by an unsuccessful effort to gain a will.

Slander.

"Nay, speak no ill—a kindly word
Can never leave a sting behind;
And oh! to breathe each tale we hear,
Is far beneath a noble mind."

Slander makes its appearance in various forms. It is indulged in by both sexes, and no class is exempt from the pernicious habit. Its commonest form is that of tattling, which is certainly the meanest, lowest, and most detestable practice of which any cynical libel on humanity could be guilty. If there is one person more despicable than another in the eyes of man, it most emphatically is this debased and cowardly scab of society. In England, Charles Dickens says this habit is confined to a few old women who are the fag-ends and refuse of decent society; but, alas, it has become frightfully common with the American people. Go where you will, you will find these fiends in human form. At the tea-table is a common place for them to enjoy an exchange of information. Here they will unburden themselves of the load they may have gathered, and will receive a new cargo, which they will carry home, give proper shape, and then scatter broadcast. In the hands of these, a story will undergo about as much change as a snowball will by being rolled down a hill. They pass it up, and roll it down, and when they get through with it, it is a perfect mountain!

If these busybodies were to think for a moment of the injury they do many innocent members of society, they might be more careful. But they never think that far ahead. It is amusement for them to enlarge and misrepresent trifles, and they always find somebody ready to laugh and encourage them.

This is wrong. We all should discountenance everything of the kind, and encourage more charitable conversations. If you see a fault in a neighbor, it is not your place to give publicity to it, thereby lowering him in the estimation of the public; but, rather, by example and kind words, show him his error, and thereby possibly reform him.

"Mildly judge ye of each other,
Be to condemnation slow;
The very best have got their failings,
Something good the worst can show."

☞At a Sabbath-school "concert," held in one of the prettiest towns in Western New York, a portion of the exercises consisted in each scholar repeating a verse of Scripture in which should be found the word love. When it came to the turn of Miss J——, a beautiful young lady of eighteen, and "in the market," she was unprepared with an answer; but before the exercise was concluded she remarked to her teacher that she had found the verse. It was:

I love those who love me, and those who seek me early shall find me."

Excellent girl, that!

An Operatic Drunk.

At the police court, one morning last week, Andrew A. Soaper replied to the usual question of "Were you drunk?" as follows:

"Hear me, nor may you hear in vain. I was drunk; with extenuating circumstances. It was not owing to drams, but to dramatic feelings. I went last night to the opera. I am sensitive, and it operated on my nerves.

"When the curtain rose the first thing that I saw was a stone altar—but it didn't altar. Soon two men came in. The libretto said they come in to gas, and I dare say that they did. I was not affected in the least, until a young lady came upon the stage, and knelt at the altar in great distress. That touched me. It was a Pauline.

"I saw Norma, too. She was trying to keep peace in the family. The Gauls were galled by the yoke of Romo.; it egged them on to fight. She would not let them. They must stay at home and not go to roam.

"Then I went to sleep, and when I woke up again I saw Norma with a lamp in one hand and a dagger in the other. She was looking ferociously at two children who were asleep. With lifted dagger she approached the infants. I wondered what she wanted. She is after an infant, I sighed.

"It shocked me horribly. The warm tears came in my eyes so that I could not see, and my head became dizzy. It remained so the rest of the evening. That kept me from seeing what Norma did. Thanks to libretto, I know she did not kill the babes.

"As the opera went on, my nervous excitement increased. It affected my eyes more than anything else. I saw two Normas—or to speak correctly, I saw Norma and her ghost. They were exactly alike.

"At last Norma herself came to disgrace. She was tried by the dreadful police court and found guilty. Then her father took a crown from her. He didn't even leave her the customary shilling with which one is cut off. A black vail was then flung over her as an emblem of vales of tears and sorrow she would have to travel through. Her funeral pyre was then visible.

"That showed me conclusively that the low are sometimes better off than the high. It was New Year's and I had only had a pie, while she had a pyre, yet I was the happiest. But then it was in part her fate. She was born and bred in Gaul.

"Then the curtain fell, and the opera was over. But it had affected me so that when I got in the open air I could not walk correctly. In fact, I staggered. I had too much 'Norma.' A policeman came along, and seemed much struck by my way of walking. I don't know why he should have been. It isn't a very uncommon way New Year's.

"He asked me where I lived. I answered, 'hearing Norma.' He became angry, and told me that he would take me to the tombs for being drunk and calling him names.

"It is needless to say that he kept his word. That is why I am here. I didn't want to come, for I knew you would be busy this morning. Tell me I may go, and see how quickly I will do it."

The Justice.—"You may go upon the payment of a fine of ten dollars. I should like to give you less, but a person who discovers a new method of becoming drunk is always fined ten dollars."

THE NUTRIMENT OF BEER.—People who drink their ale and beer are very fond of telling how much nutriment they derive from them! Because they are manufactured from grain, many have the idea that the concentrated virtues of the grain are in the drinks. This is an entire fallacy. Professor Liebig, one of the most eminent chemists in the world, assures us that 1,400 quarts of best Bavaria beer contain exactly the nourishment of a two-and-a-half-pound loaf of bread! This beer is very similar to the famous English Allsopp's, and our more popular American beer. The fact is, the nutritious portion of the grain is rotted before beer can be made; and if the fermentation of the beer has been complete, Professor Lyon Fairplay declares that no nourishment whatever remains in the fermented liquor; and, as the English Alliance News says, "No chemist now disputes these assertions; for, except in flavor and amount of alcohol, the chemical composition of all kinds of beer is alike, and brewers must laugh to hear doctors advising porter as more nourishing than beer, when porter is nothing but beer colored by burnt malt; and often when beer goes wrong in the making, and is unsalable as beer, it is converted into fine porter, the mere coloring covering many defects!"—The Nation.

INTEMPERANCE.—If all the wealth now sunk in the bottomless pit of intemperance were appropriated to the purchase of libraries, philosophical apparatus, or cabinets of natural history; if all the time, that element of priceless value, which is now worse than lost in the various haunts of dissipation, were devoted to the reading of well selected books, to lyceum exercise, to music, or other social and refining arts, it would give to society a new moral and political sensorium. How can any man witness without pain this great deformity, where there should be beauty and divine grandeur.—Horace Mann.

☞A flirt resembles a dipper attached to a hydrant. Everybody is at liberty to drink from it, but no one desires to take it away.

HUNTINGDON, PA.

Wednesday morning, May 29, 1867.

WM. LEWIS, HUGH LINDSAY, } EDITORS.

"I know of no mode in which a loyal citizen may so well demonstrate his devotion to his country as by sustaining the Flag, the Constitution and the Union, under all circumstances, and UNDER EVERY ADMINISTRATION REGARDLESS OF PARTY POLITICS, AGAINST ALL ASSAILANTS, AT HOME AND ABROAD."—STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS.

☞ Our experience of public men during the past twenty years, leads us to the opinion that, for the people to be sure on which side of any given question they may be, it is necessary that they should be consulted at least three times a day, and once at night, during each twenty-four hours.

OUR PLATFORM.—Since we have stood upon the independent platform we have avowed and will still avow, that we have no respect for the corrupt politicians of either party. Our people have seen enough of them without making any further expose.

We are opposed to two third majorities in either party; for we believe that so long as they exist, the more radical leaders will force their measures on their constituents, and carry them by a strict party vote. There has ever been a dread amongst party men against voting in opposition to the wishes of those who are called the leaders of the party to which they belong. This dread has influenced men to such an extent that at this day, no matter what measure is introduced by the leaders, the followers are sure to vote for it, many of them without expressing their own views, or stating their objections.

An honest difference of opinion should be respected, but what weight has an opposition opinion, no matter how truthful or forcible, which is checked at all stages by the prejudices of the majority, and overruled by their votes. Why call the minority of our Legislators or Congressmen the Representives of the State or Nation, when their opinions are never of weight, and seldom listened to. We consider it a mere waste of time and the people's money. If honest members could be elected, whose devotion was to the country and its interests, and not to party and its interests, then the opinions of men, of whatever party, would be respected, and have their proper force. This is what we look for, and we trust the time will soon come when the opinions of men will not be overruled by party prejudices.

HORACE GREELEY.—There is a discussion among Republican journals as to whether Horace Greeley was right in bailing Jeff. Davis. The Union League in New York censured Mr. Greeley for his course and he replied in substance that he was willing that they should do as they pleased, and he would do as he pleased. This has sharpened the debate between the Republican journals. We think Greeley was perfectly justified in doing as he did, as an individual; and as for his party censuring him, it only proves that parties expect that the editors of their organ must comply with the party's dictates, and hold their own opinions in abeyance. Mr. Greeley is an independent journalist, and does what he thinks is right, no matter whether the party approves or censures. When journalism throughout the country attains this standard it will be properly appreciated by the rank and file of both parties; but so long as editors comply like sheep to the wishes of party politicians, so long will they be considered the sheep of the party, to be driven where the party leaders wish.

We don't consider it right and just that Jeff. Davis should be pardoned, but if there is no possibility of his being punished for his treason, then he should have no trial, and if he is not to be tried he ought to be pardoned. We think the head and Chief of a rebellion against the Government is truly guilty of treason, but it strikes us that it would only make the farce worse to give him a trial and then let him go Davis free, as it is alleged by legal men would be the case.

Stringent Liquor Law.

The Pennsylvania Legislature has passed a stringent liquor law, which we publish in another column. This statute, which closes all bars and saloons after midnight, and entirely on Sunday; which makes it the duty of the constables and police to arrest every person found in the public streets or highways intoxicated, whether disorderly or not; which utterly forbids the selling or giving away of ale or beer, as well as of stronger liquors, to minors; which authorizes any child of any parent to forbid the sale of whisky or champagne to his father; and which makes it the bounden duty of all sheriffs, constables, and officers, and members of the police, to compel the observance of all its provisions, is by far the most searching and sweeping temperance or liquor law ever enacted in Pennsylvania.

THE Fenians are making extensive preparations to invade Canada. They have enough artillery and ammunition to equip one hundred thousand men.

THERE are black sheep in every flock, but there are so few of them in the Democratic party, that when one is found there is a general yelp of astonishment from the Abolitionists who are quite accustomed to the society of such animals.—Bedford Gazette.

Do tell. Is it possible there are so few black sheep in a party organization which did so much to carry on the war under the management of Wood, Vallandigham & Co. Has that party so soon retrieved its lost honors and virtue? We think not; and if the Gazette editor would only speak what he thinks, he would say, there is very little else than dishonesty in the politicians of either party. Place the would-be leaders of the Democratic faith, in the same position with those of the Republican belief, and the result would soon be seen. There is no use talking,—there are as many black sheep politicians on one side, as there is on the other, and the sooner the honest masses of the people throw them overboard, and refuse to be led by their counsels, the better it will be for the country. No party, in our opinion, can prosper long, which respects rascally politicians, as sooner or later the people will become disgusted and refuse to vote for them.

HAS ANY TRAITOR BEEN PARDONED?—The recent decision of Chief Justice Chase in regard to the confiscation of the estate of an alleged Rebel is of vital interest at the present time. The Chief Justice held that no man was guilty of rebellion until he was convicted, and no man could be convicted until he had been tried by a jury of his peers. This is the literal law in the question of treason, and viewed in its light, we have really no traitors in our country. The gross negligence of the Government in refusing to bring any to a trial, has really left them all legally innocent, although we all know them guilty. We have in the United States not a single traitor. Not one has been tried, and hence, not one is known to be guilty. In this light another question arises, which has already attracted the attention of jurists. If we have no traitors in the country, could the President grant any pardons? It is certainly logical that if there are no criminals there can be no pardons. Hence it is a very doubtful question whether all the pardons granted are not utterly worthless.—Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

The New Jury Law--Jury Commission to be Elected.

An act was passed by the Legislature, which became a law by the Governor's signature April 15th, 1867, having for its object the better and more impartial selection of persons to serve as jurors in each of the counties of this State. The first section of the law is as follows:

"That at the general election to be held on the second Tuesday of October, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven, and triennially thereafter, at such election, the qualified electors of the several counties of this Commonwealth shall elect, in the manner now provided by law, for the election of other county officers, two sober, intelligent and judicious persons, to serve as jury commissioners in each of said counties for the period of three years ensuing their elections; but the same person or persons, shall not be eligible for re-election more than once in any period of six years: Provided, That each of said qualified elector, shall vote for one person only as jury commissianer; and the two persons having the greatest number of votes for jury commissioner shall be only elected jury commissioner for such county."

The pay of jury commissioner is fixed at two dollars and fifty cents per day, and four cents per mile circular from residence to Court House. The penalty for neglecting or refusing to attend to the duties of the office is a fine of one hundred dollars.

☞ The Booth diary is published. It is simply a defense of his action. He says, under date of April 13th and 14th: "Until to-day nothing was ever thought of sacrificing to our country's wrong. For six months we had worked to capture, but our cause being almost lost, something decisive and great must be done. But its falling was owing to others, who did not strike for their country with a heart. I struck boldly, and not as the papers say. I walked with a firm step through a thousand of his friends, and was stopped, but pushed on. A Colonel was at his side. I shouted, 'Sic Semper' before I fired. In jumping I broke my leg. I passed all his pickets, and rode sixty miles that night with the bone of my leg lacerating the flesh at every jump I can never repent it, though we hated to kill. Our country owed all her troubles to him, and God simply made me the instrument of his punishment. The country is not in April, '65, what it was. This forced Union is not what I have loved. I care not what becomes of me. I have no desire to outlive my country. This night, before the deed, I wrote a long article and left it for one of the editors of the National Intelligencer, in which I set fully forth our reasons for our proceeding."

The Liquor License Bill reported in the Massachusetts Legislature a few days ago was killed in the lower branch on the 23d. by the overwhelming vote of 161 to 63. The friends of the Prohibitory law are highly elated at the result, and are arranging for a complimentary testimonial of Messrs. Spooner and Miner, who have so persistently advocated their cause before a legislative committee. The anti-prohibitionists will make the matter a political question next fall. The barrooms remain closed meantime, and club rooms flourish.

The Atlantic Cable of 1866 was cut or damaged by an iceberg at the western shore end, near Heart's Content, Newfoundland, on the 8th of May, and has ceased working. The cable of 1865, however, is unimpaired, and its capacity exceeds the requirements of the business between this country and Europe. The Cable of 1866 it is thought can be repaired at a very small cost, and will be in operation in a very short time.

A New Liquor Law.

The following Act was passed at the last session of the Pennsylvania Legislature, and was approved on the 17th of April by the Governor. It is therefore a Law:

An Act to enable Police Officers to enforce order in licensed houses, and to exterminate the unlicensed traffic.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That persons licensed to keep taverns, or eating houses, shall, as far as in them lie, prevent all disorderly conduct in, and about, their premises, and in case of any disturbance of the peace, shall immediately give notice to the nearest sheriff, constable, officer, or member of police, of such disturbance, and call upon said officer to interpose; whereupon it shall be the duty of such officer to remove the disorderly persons, and, if need be, to close up the place, and keep it closed until order and quiet are entirely restored.

SEC. 2. No person shall sell, give away, or dispose of, any strong or spirituous liquors, wines, ale, beer, or any intoxicating drinks, to any apprentice, or any person under twenty-one years of age, without consent given, in writing, in the case of any apprentice, of his master, or mistress, in case of any other minor, of his father, mother, or guardian.

SEC. 3. No person shall sell or dispose of, and no licensed person shall suffer any person, in his, her, or their, employment, to sell, give away, or dispose of, any strong or spirituous liquors, wine, ale, beer, or any mixtures of such liquors, to any habitual drunkard, or to any intoxicated person then being under the influence of any such liquors, under penalty of forfeiture of license.

SEC. 4. No person thus licensed, shall, against the request of any wife, husband, parent, or child, sell, give away, or dispose of, any strong or spirituous liquors, wines, ale, or beer, to the husband of any such wife, the wife of any such husband, parent of any such child, or child of any such parent, under penalty of all the fines and forfeitures of this act.

SEC. 5. All persons, thus licensed, shall close, or shut up, their bar, or place of sale, at, or before, the hour of twelve, every night, and not open the same until sunrise next day, and on Sundays shall not open them at all, but keep them shut until Monday at sunrise; this is not designed to prevent the reception and lodging of persons traveling, without violation of law.

SEC. 6. Any conviction, for the violation of any provision of this act, by a person licensed under it, or at any place licensed, shall work a forfeiture, and annul such license, and no license fee shall be returned.

SEC. 7. It shall be the duty of every sheriff, constable, policeman, and officer of police, to compel the observance and to prevent the violation of the provisions of this act; and in the discharge of such duty, if need be, he shall have power to close up, and to keep closed, any place or places where such violations become known to him, whether by his own personal observation, or by information of any respectable citizen of the vicinity; also, it shall be the duty of the officers aforesaid, to arrest such persons, so alleged to be acting in violation of law, and to bring them before any magistrate of the vicinity, to be dealt with according to the provisions of this act; and it shall be the duty of such magistrate to entertain complaints, for the violation of this act, when made under oath by any citizen of the vicinity.

SEC. 8. It shall be the duty of every sheriff, constable, member and officer of police, to arrest any and every person, who shall be found intoxicated, in any street, or public highway, or in any public place, or places, where strong or spirituous liquors, wines, ale or beer are sold, publicly kept, or disposed of, and to take him, or her, before any magistrate of the vicinity; and if such magistrate shall, after due inquiry, deem him, or her, too much intoxicated to be fully examined, or to answer on oath correctly, the magistrate shall cause him, or her, to be confined until he, or she, becomes sober, and then to be brought before him and interrogated, under oath, or affirmation, as to the cause of such intoxication, and thus ascertain from whom he or she obtained the liquor, which caused the drunkenness; but such examination shall not be used in evidence against such intoxicated person, in any prosecution, civil or criminal.

SEC. 9. Any person who shall sell any strong or spirituous liquors, wines, beer or ale, to any of the individuals to whom it is declared by this act to be unlawful to make such sale, shall be liable for all damages which may be sustained, in consequence of such sale; and the parties so offending may be sued in any court of competent jurisdiction in the State, by any individual, or the next friend of such individual, as has sustained damage; the net sum recovered shall inure to the benefit of the party injured.

SEC. 10. Every person who may, and shall violate any of the provisions of this act, shall for each offence be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished with a fine of not more than twenty dollars, and in default of payment, with imprisonment of not more than five days.

Speaker of the Senate.

APPROVED—The seventeenth day of April, Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and sixty-seven.

JNO. W. GEARY.

The determined action of the Revenue officers in seizing distilleries, has resulted in a general panic among the manufacturers of whisky. It is estimated that not more than six distilleries are now in operation, and those are under surveillance. It is reported to day that an order has been received from Commissioner Rollins, directing the seizure of all unbranded whisky whenever found, in New York city.

Capture of Maximilian.

The Secretary of State has received a despatch from Mexico, stating that Queretaro fell by force of arms on May 15th. The would-be emperor Maximilian, and his Generals Mejia, Castello, and Miramon are prisoners.

A STRANGE CASE OF LOVE AND JEALOUSY.—A remarkable case of love and jealousy has recently culminated at Suffield, Conn., in a mysterious disappearance. The wife of a well-known cigar manufactures in that town formed a warm attachment, last year, for a singing master, who led the choir in the Congregational church, where she was the principal singer. The two were very intimate, and there was considerable gossip in consequence, though it is not known that their intimacy reached unlawful limits. This year the chorister was employed by the Baptist church, his friend remaining in her former position. He was polite and attentive to the ladies in his new choir, and soon roused an extraordinary feeling of jealousy in the cigar manufacturer's wife. She sent him a large number of anonymous letters in feigned hands, threatening him with all sorts of things, if he didn't cease his attentions to the Baptist girls. The matter reached a crisis on Friday of last week, when the chorister fixed upon her the authorship of the letters and in turn threatened a public expose, and demanded the satisfaction. On the same afternoon, while her husband was absent, the lady wrote a letter, telling him he would never see her again, and suddenly departed. She was traced nearly half a mile to a swamp, and on Sunday the whole town was in search of her. Every possible means was used to ascertain her fate, but wholly without result, nor has she been heard from since. The affair, as may be imagined, has created a profound sensation in Suffield. The lady was good-looking, accomplished, about thirty years old, and the mother of one child.—Springfield, (Mass.) Republican.

RED CLOUD THE INDIAN LEADER.—Speaking of the forthcoming war on the plains, the Reese River Reveille says:

The great leader of the Indians is Red Cloud, or Mahpilitan, who is represented as one of the ablest Indian warriors of any time. He is about thirty-five years of age, tall, handsome, athletic, and perfect in his horsemanship as in his physical appearance. He has commanded in several battles previous to the massacre of Col. Fetterman's command, and has never been whipped. He was at Laramie last spring, at the treaty making, enjoying the farce and treating it as such without disguise, yet accepting all the presents offered, but left with the declaration that his country should never be occupied by the whites, nor garrisoned by them, nor should their roads cross it. Then he was at the head of but 300 warriors of the Ogalallah Sioux, but his marshaling 3,000 at Fort Philip Kearney shows the influence he has over others, and his determination to make his threat good. He is an active, energetic and able warrior, and he who conquers Red Cloud will do more than he who conquered Tecumseh, or Black Hawk, or Osceola.

Brief Items.

—Newspaper fights are the rage in this and adjoining counties. We're out.

—We hear that John Brotherline, editor of the Hollidaysburg Whig, has been appointed Register of Bankruptcy for this district.

—The Juniata was on a "high" on Sunday last. It was evidently showing its contempt for the new liquor law. Let it rage.

—We are ready to thank any of our friends at Harrisburg for a copy of the General Laws of Pennsylvania when we get them. Who'll send us one?

—We have a letter from "Werdant Jeemes" which we will publish next week. It has been crowded out this week by advertisements.

—Hon. George Taylor and Mr. Jno. M. Lyon, of this county, have been appointed on the Board of Managers of the State Temperance Society.

—A gold enamelled finger ring was lost last week at the lower end of town, on Charles street. The finder will be rewarded by leaving it at this office.

—We direct the attention of our local readers to a column on the fourth page, which is of interest to antiquarians who like to delve into ancient literary lore.

—Individuals who have been scanning the signs of the weather in and about this locality, assert that we have not had one day this month without more or less rain.

—There will be another Soldiers' Monument meeting held in the Court House on next Friday evening. The report of the Committee to draft a plan of organization, &c., will be read. Everybody is invited.

—Robt. Brown, of the Clarion Democrat, publishes over one column of announcements of candidates for political preferment. Our columns are open to all who want "posish," and to the friends of those who don't.

—A beauty: our new job stick.—We are prepared to do all kinds of job printing expeditiously and in a neat and workmanlike manner. Send in your orders, and try us. Our facilities surpass any other office in this neck of timber.

—A Sabbath School Temperance Society has been formed in Mifflin and Patterson boroughs, Juniata county. This is the proper way to educate the rising generation, and Huntingdon temperance advocates should not be behind.

—The Mount Unionites are rejoicing over the attachment of a passenger car to the Stock Freight east, which stops at all stations between Huntingdon and Mifflin. The train leaves Huntingdon at 4:25 P. M., and arrives at Mt. Union at 6:12 P. M.

—Dr. R. A. Miller has purchased the property now occupied by Mr. Jas. Higgens, adjoining Yenter's store, for $1600. He intends building a brick upon the site, to commence in April next, perhaps sooner.

—In making mention of the ancient book in possession of Col. Summers of this place, last week, the compositor made a serious mistake in the date.—It should have been 1583 instead of "1853." The mistake was noticed before all the edition was printed.

—Counterfeit ten dollar bills on the Third National Bank of Philadelphia, are in circulation. They are pretty well executed. The little letter "c" is left out of the word "currency" on the edge of the upper right hand corner, near the figure 10, on the face of the spurious note.

—The County Commissioners of Blair county have agreed to put a town clock on the Court House in Hollidaysburg borough, if the citizens contribute $150 toward the project.—Haven't our Com's got the "stamps" to do likewise? We think our citizens would go their backing.

—The Johnstown Tribune and Ebensburg Alleghanian, the two Republican papers published in Cambria county, this district, have declared in favor of Impartial Suffrage to all men—both white and black. Why don't the Journal & American raise the same standard, and thereby follow the dictates of its party leaders?

—Now that our Councilmen have ordered property-holders to make pavements in front of their lots, should they not oblige those who have pavements to reset the brick in such a way as to avoid the puddles a pedestrian meets with on a rainy day. We think the ordinance should be made to apply as fair to one as the other, and we hope the borough authorities will so order it, as an accommodation to the ladies, at least.

Come One, Come All,

And see the grand display at J. B. Shontz's in Marklesburg. Quick sales and small profits must undoubtedly be his motto. †1.

We Are Going

To the Show, and will buy our goods at A. L. Lewis' new Store, Huntingdon. And will save enough money to get to see the ELEPHANT, and the BABIE for nothing. That's so. †

The License Question.

Another effort was made by the temperance people of this place to defeat the keepers of eating houses from getting licenses. The cases were brought up on Saturday evening last. Mr. Scott read the remonstrances and affidavits against five of them. Judge Taylor decided that in the face of the affidavits he could not grant the licenses, when the cases were postponed until August Court for further hearing.

—We learn that at a late hour on Saturday night, the licenses were all granted, but we do not know upon what understanding. This is the second defeat of the Temperance people, but we have no hesitation in saying that they are determined to have the laws obeyed, notwithstanding. The new law which we publish to-day, is somewhat stringent in its provisions, and we shall deem it as much the fault of the temperance reformers as the liquor dealers, if there is not a strict compliance with its provisions. The new law is good enough as far as it goes, but it depends upon the efforts and vigilance of the temperance men and officers of the law to prevent any violations. We hope to see no further difficulty on the license question, and if persons will sell liquor, let them not violate the law, with the expectation that they will go unpunished, as we are firm in the belief that the Court will not brook any violations in the future, but will visit them with the punishment that they merit.

We think the temperance people in our community have not lost anything by their efforts, and we have no doubt that they will continue as they have commenced. The liquor venders may expect them to be on the alert, and should govern their actions accordingly, then there will no difficulties. All the temperance people ask is that they sell without violating the law, and until they do that they cannot expect to be let alone.

'Tis an Indisputable Fact,

That J. B. Shontz in Marklesburg sells goods 25 per cent. lower than any house in the county. His endless stock has only been opened four days, and numerous buyers testify to the cheapness of his goods. Clothing can be bought lower from him, than at present retail stores in Philadelphia. He is the only man that sells sugar at 9 cts. per lb. "Seeing is believing," and that is the way to find out how low he really sells. †1.

Notice to the Devil's Pickets,

One hundred and seventy-five young men of all shapes and sizes, from the tall, graceful dandy, with hair enough on his upper lip to stuff a barber's cushion, down to the little hunch back, freckle-faced, bow-legged, carrot headed upstart. The object is to start a gazing corps to be in attendance at Church doors on each Sabbath, before the commencement of Divine Service, and at the close thereof, to stare at ladies as they enter and leave the Church, and make delicate and gentlemanly remarks upon their person and dress. All who wish to enter the above corps will appear at the different Church doors next Sunday morning, where they will be duly inspected, and their names, personal appearance and their vacuity of brains registered in a book for that purpose. We hope to see a full attendance of the class above referred to at the place mentioned, in conformity with this notice. The corps is ordered to form in single line at their rendezvous, and keep a full "front face" until their names are registered and they are "sworn in." Now that their bravery is to be tested we hope they will face the music without shrinking or skulking.

Daring Robbery.

On Friday morning last, between three and four o'clock, a safe in the drug store of John Read, of this place, was blown open with powder, by burglars. The thieves entered the store by a back window, and finding the safe behind the counter, had drawn it out to the centre of the room, and placed powder in the key-hole. It is thought the safe exploded about the time the trains were passing, the sound of which deadened the report. Money to the amount of about $100 is thought to have been taken from it. The safe was completely bursted, which revealed the fact that it was a very unsafe affair at best, being bound with thin sheet iron, lined with boards, and filled in with clay of a common kind. The thieves have not been arrested, and we would caution our people to beware of a repetition of such outrage, and advise them to leave as little money in their safes as possible.

Another Show Coming.

Our show-liking people will be pleased to learn that Whitbey & Co's Consolidated Show, embracing circuses and Managerie, will be here on Wednesday next, the 5th of June. This combination comes highly recommended, and by reference to advertisement in another column, it will be seen that there is much to attract the public. The baby elephant, only 18 months old and weighing 350 pounds, is a novelty of itself, and is well worth the price of admission. It has a large troupe of performers, and withal two good clowns. Be in time to see the Grand Procession at 10 o'clock, in which will be seen a team of elephants, blooded circus horses, twin ponies, and the more than usual paraphernalia.

More About Gold.

There seems to be considerable excitement manifested in this neighborhood, in consequence of gold having been discovered in the Blue Hills, situated in the lower end of Germany Valley. The indications were first observed by Mr. C. V. Trew, some time ago, on the property of Mr. Boody. Since then, the same quartz has been discovered elsewhere in the neighborhood. The ores have been analyzed by three assayists in New York City, and each reports it to contain gold to the value of from thirteen to sixteen dollars a ton. We understand that parties are about leasing the lands on which the discoveries have been made, and intend shortly to commence operations. That gold in small quantities exists in much of the rock in this section of country, has long been known; but that it exists in sufficient quantity to make its extraction remunerative, as now appears to be the case, is somewhat startling, and may mark a new era in our progress.—Mount Union Times.

☞ Peterson's Magazine for June, is an unusually fine number, even for this popular and elegant magazine. It has a beautiful steel engraving, "The Wild Flowers in the Wood;" a splendid mammoth colored fashion plate, with five figures; a colored pattern for a tobacco-pouch; and about fifty wood engravings of dresses, bonnets, collars and cuffs, children's fashions, baby's shoe, patterns in embroidery, smoking cap, &c., &c. The literary contents maintain the high character of "Peterson." That powerful story, "The Long Journey," is finished. Mrs. Ann S. Stephens' fascinating novelet, "Married by Mistake," is continued. A capital article on "The Laws of Croquet," is alone worth the price of the number. This is a time to subscribe, for a new volume begins with July, though back numbers from January may also be had, if subscribers wish to commence with the first of the year. "Peterson's" is the cheapest of all the monthlies. To single subscribers it is but $2,00 a year. For $8,00 five copies are sent, with an extra copy to the person getting up the club. Address C. J. Peterson, 306 Chestnut St., Philadelphia.

The Little Corporal for June,

Contains Education, by Horace Greeley; Wishing for Wings, by Mrs. Bugbee; The Bear's Den, by Mrs. Miller; Childhood Dreams, by Luella Clark; Science for Children, by Prof. Hooker, of Yale College; June, by Mrs. Miller, with Music by Geo. F. Root; A Lesson in the Woods; Welcome June; Private Queer's Knapsack, with Picture Stories, Puzzles, and other choice original articles.

A new volume of this Popular Juvenile begins with the next number. All who subscribe before July 1st will receive the June Number free.

The price of The Little Corporal is One Dollar a year. Sample copy, telling about beautiful Premiums, to Clubs, ten cents.

AGENTS WANTED FOR

GENERAL L. C. BAKER'S,

History of the SECRET SERVICE.

This work was announced more than a year ago, but owing to the attempts of the Government to suppress it, its publication was delayed. It will now be issued, UNALTERED and UNABRIDGED, UNDER the SUPERVISION of GENERAL BAKER. These marvelous narratives are all attested by the highest official authority.

The MORALS of the National Capital are THOROUGHLY VENTILATED, and there are some STRANGE REVELATIONS concerning HEADS OF DEPARTMENTS, Members of Congress, FEMALE PARDON BROKERS, and distinguished military characters.

Send for Circulars and see our terms, and a full description of the work. Address P. GARRETT & CO., 702 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.

BEALE'S

Late Powell's Embrocation,

For all Diseases Incident to HORSES, CATTLE, and the HUMAN FLESH, Requiring the use of an External Application.

This new Compound, prepared by a practical Chemist having a full knowledge of all the medical virtues of each ingredient that enters into its composition, is warranted to exceed anything of the kind ever yet offered to the Public as an external application for the diseases for which it is recommended. We are satisfied that it will work its own road into the confidence of all who use it, and those who try it once will never be without it, and therefore we rely on experience as the best test of its usefulness. It is pronounced by Farriers, and all who have tried it to be the best application ever used. This Embrocation has been put up for over eight years, and it is only through the increasing demand and urgent request of my friends and the Public that I send it forth as the grand remedial agent for the various diseases to which that noble and useful animal, the horse, is subject

Many remedies have been offered to the Public under different forms, some of these are injurious, others at best of little use, and many wholly improper to answer the purposes for which they are recommended.

A judicious and really useful composition, free from those objections, has therefore long been desired by many gentlemen who have valuable horses, and are unwilling to trust them to the care of designing and pretended Farriers. Their wishes are at length fully gratified, by Dr. Beale being prevailed upon to allow this valuable Embrocation (which has proved so efficacious to the

LOCAL ANTIQUITIES.

It is sometimes very interesting, says the Hollidaysburg Standard, to peruse old papers, published a half century or more ago, before the discovery of steam, electricity, and railroads; and more especially when the papers were printed in our county, from which we can glean facts that give us some idea as to how our grand fathers and great grand fathers "lived and moved and had their being" in days long gone by. We are indebted to our esteemed friend and fellow citizen, James McCahan, Esq., for full files of his father's paper, published in Huntingdon—ye ancient borough—in 1802. There was no canal then—no railroad—we would say, "no nothing." All this country was then one vast wilderness. We propose to give extracts from this paper from time to time, as space and time will permit, which will be of much interest to our readers and especially the old settlers.

The paper is called

The HUNTINGDON GAZETTE.
And weekly Advertiser.

HUNTINGDON (Pennsylvania):—PRINTED BY JOHN M'CAHAN, WASHINGTON STREET; opposite to GUINN'S Alley, PRICE—SINGLE, SIX CENTS. TWO DOLLARS PER ANNUM.

The first page of each number of the paper gives the proceedings in full of the Legislature, which assembled then in Lancaster city. Then follows:—

MINUTES,
OF
THE PROCEEDINGS IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, OF THE UNITED STATES.

The first thing we notice in these "minutes" is the bill passed Jan. 21st, 1802, by a vote of 77 yeas to 12 nays, "fixing the military establishment of the United States." It provides that the army shall consist of "3,000 men; and consist of 1 Brigadier General, 1 adjutant and inferior, 3 military agents, 2 surgeons, 25 surgeons mates, 1 regiment of artillerists of 20 companies, 2 regiments of infantry of 10 companies each." This "army" would have been regarded during the late rebellion as an exceedingly small brigade.

Mr. Swope lost a horse, and offers the very tempting reward of $16 for horse and thief or $8 for horse alone:—

SIXTEEN DOLLARS REWARD.

STOLEN, on the night of the 22d instant, out of the pasture of the subscriber, a BRIGHT BAY HORSE, between fourteen and fifteen hands high, rising seven years old, trots and paces, has neither brand nor Saddle mark but has a small lump about the middle of his back nearly the size of a plumb; he had on a pair of old shoes before black main and tail and never was docked. Whoever takes up said Horse and thief, so as the thief be brought to punishment, and the owner get his Horse again shall have the above reward, and for the Horse only Eight dollars and all reasonable charges, paid by the Subscriber, (if brought home) living in Huntingdon County Shirley township, on the road that leads from Shirley to Huntingdon. JOHN SWOPE.

Shirley Township, 27th October.

Mr. Patton has a steer which he is anxious to get rid of, owing to a scarity of hay:—

a stray Steer

TAKEN up about the first of November last, supposed to be about two years old last spring He is brindle and white, the owner is desired to come and prove property, pay charges and take him away, as the subscriber is scarce of Hay. JOSEPH PATTON.

Huntingdon, 25th Jan. 1802.

The County Commissioners think it advisable to make some improvements to the Court House:—

CARPENTERS are invited to enter into a contract to erect a large Porch and Stairs in front of the Court House; on Saturday 13th March instant, the work to be completed on or before the 3d Monday in April next.

The plan, or description may be seen in our Office, on application to either of us.

CHEAP WOODEN PUMPS.

The merit of these pumps is shown by the fact that the demand for them is rapidly increasing every where. There is no iron in them to corrode and injure the water. They are light and convenient, so that every man can put in his own pump, the whole only costing him about one half the price of other pumps. Pumps, and wooden pipe to suit them, promptly shipped by railroad on receipt of order. Give depth from floor to bottom of well.

PROF. H. M'ENTYRE'S GREAT REMEDY,

THE

INDIAN COMPOUND

Internal and External Medicine,

WILL CURE:

☞ Diarrhœa, Bloody Flux in one day,
☞ Headache and Earache in three minutes.
☞ Toothache in one minute.
☞ Neuralgia in five minutes,
☞ Sprains in twenty minutes,
☞ Sore Throat in ten minutes,
☞ Cholic and Cramp in five minutes,
☞ Rheumatism in one day,
☞ Pain in the Back or Side in ten minutes,
☞ Bad Coughs or Colds in one day,
☞ Fever and Ague in one day.
☞ Cures Deafness, Asthma, Piles,
☞ Bronchitis Affections, Dyspepsia,
☞ Inflammation of the Kidneys, Erysipelas,
☞ Liver Complaint and Palpitation of the Heart.

Keep it in your Families—Sickness comes when least expected.

I propose to check, and effectually dissipate more ache and pain, and to accomplish more perfect equilibrium of all the circulating fluids in the human system, than can be effected by any other, or all other methods of medical aid in the same space of time.

THIS POPULAR REMEDY is fast coming into use, for the fact that I cure, free of charge, all those complaints wherever there is an opportunity to do so. As soon as it is applied it almost miraculously kills the pain. I do not ask you to buy before you are certain of its efficacy. If you have an ache or pain, it is warranted to do all it purports on the label.

I do not propose to cure every disease—only a class named by my directions. My liniment operates on chemical and electric principles, and is, therefore, applicable, to the cure or natural restorative of all organic derangement arising from an improper circulation of the nerve vital fluids.

Prof. J. H. McEntyre's INDIAN COMPOUND acts directly on the absorbents, reducing glandular and other swellings in incredible short time, without any possible danger from its use under any possible circumstances.

This is an internal and external medicine—composed of roots, herbs and barks, such as our forefathers used.—There is a bountiful supply on earth to cure all complaints if we only know what they were.

This has been a great study with the Medical Faculty for many years, to find out the kinds best adapted to the above complaints—how to put them together, and what proportions to use.

PHOTOGRAPH

PATENT APPLIED FOR.

Hitherto there has been nothing introduced in way of a Marriage Certificate that has excited any interest or attraction; but the originators of the PHOTOGRAPH MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE claim that they have gotten up something that will be most heartily welcomed by all persons now married and all those who contemplate marriage.

Size and Plan of the Marriage Certificate.

The size of the Certificate is 19 by 14 inches. It contains a beautiful figure representing the union of two hearts. Above the figure is written in beautifully ornamented German Text the words "Photograph Marriage Certificate." There are three spaces in the figure: on the space in the center the Certificate proper is written. The words, "two hearts in one" form an arch over the Certificate proper, and immediately under the arch there is a beautiful figure representing the joining of hands, and where the centre space comes to a point there is a picture of two beautiful turtle doves. On the space to the left there is a place for the photograph of the gentleman and under it we have the words, "To the Husband," in ornamental text, under which we have selections of Scripture passages addressed to the husband. On the left side of the engraving we have a place for the Photograph of the wife. Immediately under which we have the words, "To the Wife," in ornamental text, under which are appropriate passages of Scripture addressed to the wife. Over the space for the photograph of gentleman we have written in Old English characters, the following appropriate passage of Scripture: "It is not good that the man should be alone," and over the space for the photograph of the lady, we have the corresponding words: "I will make him an help meet for him." At the lower extension of the figure of the hearts, we have the hearts bound together or encircled in part by these words: "What therefore God hath joined together let no man put asunder." The Certificate is so constructed that card photographs of both bride and bridegroom can be inserted without the least possible difficulty. Indeed everything connected with it is so elegant, attractive and desirable that many single persons seeing the Certificate have been so much pleased with its appearance, that they purchased on sight one of these beautiful parlor ornaments.

A specimen copy of the Photograph Marriage Certificate will be carefully put up and sent by mail free, on receipt of the retail price, which is ONE DOLLAR.

No more Bald Heads!
No more Gray Locks!

DR. LEON'S

Is pronounced by all who have used it the very best preparation for the Hair. It is a positive cure for Baldness, eradicates Dandruff and Humors, stops the hair from falling out, and speedily restores Gray Locks to their original hue and luxuriance.

It operates on the secretions and fills the glands with new life and coloring matter. Thin, dead, faded or gray hair will always be brought back by a few applications, to its youthful abundance, vitality and color.

It makes the hair soft, glossy, fragrant, pleasant to the touch and easy to arrange. Dry, wiry and intractable locks become moist, pliant and disposed to remain in any desired position. As a Hair Dressing it has no equal.—The sales are enormous and it is a universal favorite with old and young of both sexes.

Sold by Druggists throughout the United States. Address all orders to
